An aerial photograph of a rocket launch complex, likely the Kennedy Space Center. Several launchers are visible, each with a large plume of white smoke and fire rising from it. The launchers are arranged in a grid pattern across a green field. The sky is filled with dark, heavy clouds, and the overall scene is dramatic and intense.

A futuristic, blue-tinted digital control room. The scene is dominated by a large wall of data displays and multiple computer monitors. In the foreground, a person is seen from behind, sitting at a desk and working on a computer. The overall atmosphere is high-tech and digital. The text is overlaid in the center of the image.
